Immigrant Professional Version 4.2 Release Notes

IMPORTANT INFORMATION

With this release and with the inclusion of the new I-129W, we have added a new field type. If you take a look at the I-129W you'll see the field type, and this is the only place this field type is used. The field type is one where each character gets its own box on the form. While we haven't perfected the functionality of this form, we felt that it was better to get this out sooner rather than later... we will provide updates to further enhance the functionality of this field type.

Here is a short description of how it works.

You currently need to click with you mouse on one of the character boxes for the field. This will bring up a small dialog box that will allow you to enter information. After you have completed the data entry in the dialog box, you press the enter key and the data that you entered will be dispersed (one character at a time) thru the single character text boxes, and the dialog will go away.

Known problems with the new field type.

- 1) You cannot tab into the field to activate the popup dialog box... activate with a mouse click.
- 2) The tab key goes through each character box, but you can edit unless you click, you'll need you use the mouse to activate the dialog box to enter data.

Additional changes / fixes

- A new field type was added for the new I-129W, to support the input data spreading across several fields. To activate these fields you need to click on the field, you will then get a dialog box to enter the data, after you press “ENTER”, the data will be distributed across all the single character fields for the data.
- Fixed a problem in the Find Client Dialog box, where it was not clearing text boxes

Additional Changes / Fixes

- Date fields were enhanced to allow for years beyond 2000. Most all date fields accept and require the century now, as in 12/12/2001. The “real date” fields (the ones that are initially displayed as “ / / “) also have a date validation attached. It won't let you out of the field until the date is blank or you have a valid date.
- The section in Edit/Preferences, where you set the Database path has been changed to use a find dialog box for the database directory. You no longer type in the path. You will need to locate the General1.dbf file in the Database directory in order to set the path. Also the path can either end in a backslash as in C:\impro32\dbf\ or not as in C:\impro32\dbf .
- We have added a Form Page Color button to the tool palette. This will display the color of each page of the form, so that you will know which color of paper to insert into the printer. Remember that colors vary from computer monitor to monitor, so don't use these as accurate colors, but rather, use them as only indicators of the color of paper.
- The above-mentioned Form Information window will be used in future release for more and additional information about the form and area of the form that you are working on. If you have any suggestions for this area, we would appreciate your feedback.
- The Visa List now shows the Effective Date in place of the “C”, and the “U” is displayed as 10/10/1010. This is because all this fields have become real date fields and will not accept anything other than a date.
- fixed Visa Search to be case insensitive to country code and preference category
- Changed database path entry in Edit/Preferences to allow for no backslash at end. Both .dbf\ and .dbf should work, as well as C:\improxx\dbf\ and C:\improxx\dbf
- removed Alien's name from ETA-750 authorization of agent block when No Agent version of form is used
- fixed page alignment (for printing) on the I-212 form

- 6) The speed of the Select Client dialog box has been increased, for databases with over 300 records. The first 50 is displayed and as you scroll to the bottom another 50 records are read in. The scroll bars for this behavior is a bit unconventional (the scroll bars scroll the displayed list of 50, and when the bottom is reached the next 50 replaces the current 50, and the scroll bar starts over from the top, in addition the thumb portion of the scroll bar will not jump the list to the next 50, this is so that you can get to the bottom record easier, to jump 50 you have to use either the page or line scroll areas). See the help area for the Select Client area.
